

mans were issued are to be found in Homestead today. Despite the story sent out last night that the six had gone to Pittsburgh to surrender, the men were to be seen in Homestead up to midnight.

It is reported that Col. Gray, Sheriff McCleary's special chief deputy, is in the borough directed to search for the men. As for the Amalgamated, Crawford, who succeeded to the leadership when O'Donnell went away, says that no warrants have yet been applied for for the Carnegie managers and the Pinkertons, but that the necessary preliminary steps are being taken by Attorney Brennan.

On the bill preparations are making to raise tents for the accommodation of Gov. Patterson and his staff, who will soldier it inside the picket lines of Gen. Snowden's headquarters during their stay in camp.

The Tenth Regiment, Col. Hawken, was brought across by river this morning and relieved the Fourth Regiment in the duty of patrol to Provost-Marshal Col. Green.

There are seven fires in the mills today, but apparently there is no increase in the force of men there.

The big mill whistle blew at noon today for the first time since the strike. The mill hands standing about the corners picked up their ears at the familiar sound and then laughed contemptuously.

"That's just a cold bluff of Potter's," said one of the men, "and he has got hardly enough steam to make a noise."

NO APPLICATIONS FOR WORK.

Homestead Men Talk in Half Whispers and Are Very Suspicious.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 19.—Today opened like yesterday. Supt. Potter with the foremen received no applications for work, and the shops were practically deserted.

Little groups of strikers gathered in the village this morning, their faces in half-whispers, not in the loud and defiant tone of yesterday. They looked upon everybody with suspicion, but they mistook no one.

They did not know at what moment they might themselves be the object of the search of the peace officers, backed by the militia.

Little by little, too, the action of that three-hour secret mass-meeting of mechanics and laborers came out. Last night the leaders declined to say what was their report, but it now appears that the men were very conservative, and that they "decided to maintain their neutral position," which is the most conciliatory phrase yet used by the men.

A dismal, drizzling rain quietly but effectively laid the miles of dust and dirt in the town, and the troops laden open dishes of Andrew Carnegie's unswerving town, preparatory to the visit of Gov. Patterson today. The drizzle did not help to dissipate the gloom of the Homestead men, every one of whom had reason to wonder if he would be the next citizen to be called for by the constables of Allegheny County.

STANTLEY UNDER MURDERERS.

The commitment of the burgess of this borough to a cell in the Pittsburgh jail, and the fact that warrants were out for six other Homesteaders, and that the town was filled with officers who secured it all yesterday afternoon in a search for the men wanted, has put a new aspect on the situation here.

It startled the men into a nervousness they had not before felt when they learned, late last night, that a whole regiment of troops had been brought down to the front ready for prompt and summary action; that two Gatling guns had been placed where they could do greatest execution against the little group of soldiers with bayonets set, had been removed and the men had begun to resume the old tactics of questioning strangers and making themselves generally disagreeable.

To discern then that what they took for a relaxation of vigilance was really only a cover for redoubled activity on the part of Gen. Snowden's men gave them an uncomfortable sensation.

The warrants issued out by Secretary F. T. Lovejoy, the "Field Marshal" of the Carnegie Steel Company, charged Hugh O'Donnell, Sylvester Critchlow, Anthony Flannery, Samuel Burnett, James Flanagan, Hugh Ross and Burgess J. Jones, with conspiracy, and their connection with the riot, which began in the darkness of early morning on Wednesday, July 6, and resulted in the death of three Pinkerton detectives and eight men locked out of the Carnegie mills a week before.

the intention to bulldoze them into submission and force them into the shops, which, they believe, cannot be manned except by a wholesale violation of the Federal laws against imported foreign contract labor.

But it is producing considerable effect upon them. That is, at least, so says Burgess McLuckie, and an exodus of Homestead men is not unlikely.

MRS. O'DONNELL'S FAITH IN HER HUSBAND. As for the insinuation that O'Donnell got a warning of the coming warrants and ran away from arrest, Mrs. O'Donnell, who is a splendid specimen of the American wife, says that her husband never reported this morning.

"My husband ran away? Why, there was no man in this community who strove so hard to induce the men to be peaceful. He risked his own life, standing unarmed between those two angry forces of men and shouting above the din for the men to control themselves. He has nothing to be ashamed of in this matter. He has nothing to be afraid of."

"He will return, you may be sure, as soon as he reads that he is called for. He does not want my husband for murder. They want him because he is called a leader of the men, and they want him out of the way."

LAWYER IN K. PATTERSON WAS HUNTED UP BY THE EVENING WORLD REPORTER last night at his Allegheny City home. He declined to say how many more arrests would be made, or to express himself on the question of what would be done in the event of the arrest of the manager of the Carnegie affairs who brought the Pinkertons here, arrested the strikers, to Homestead, and thus precipitated the bloody riot that resulted in the sacrifice of eleven lives.

A secret meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Homestead men was proposed to move immediately against those who precipitated the riot by swearing out warrants against Henry Claverick, Secretary P. T. F. Lovejoy, General Supt. John A. Porter, Supt. Corey of the armor-plate mill, Yardmaster Dorey and William and Robert Pinkerton, charging them with murder.

The attorney for the committee, W. J. Brennan, advised against this at the time, but it is sure to be done sooner or later on the strength of advice said to have been given by Gen. H. F. Butler.

The expressed opinion in Pittsburgh and at Homestead is that it was in very bad taste for the Carnegie to move in the matter of these arrests, and that, as usual, the authorities of Allegheny county were derelict in their duty.

With soldiers to help an inefficient sheriff, private persons as complainants to perform the work of the coroners and privately paid lawyers to sustain the hand of a slow public prosecutor, the remark is made that it would seem that local reform was needed in Allegheny.
